DIED.

On the morning of July 20, 1900, Mr W. O. Dorsey departed this life after a lingering illness from that dread disease, consumption.

Mr Dorsey was born and reared in Jackson county, this State. At the age of 19 he entered the free schools of his county as a teacher, having fully prepred himself for the profession. He taught two terms and then left the State and for eleven years his whereabouts was unknown to his friends at home. At the end of this time he returned home a physical wreck, having contracted the disease which caused his death. His brother R. E Dorsey cared for him from that time until his death with all the affection of brother. He was with him for several weeks previous to his death, and every care and need was attend to. When he found that no medical aid could prolong his brothers life he sat by his bedside and spared no effort to make the end as painless as possible.

About the 15th of May, 1900, Mr Dorsey came to the home of Charles Slaven, at Durbin, hoping to be benefitted by the mountain air. He remained there until his death. He had formed a previous friendship with Mr Slaven in his travels, and this friendship never diminished during his stay here.

Mr Dorsey was of a very congenial disposition and made many warm friends during his stay here. This community mourns the loss of a true friend and extends its warmest sympathy to the relatives of the deceased. His body was taken to Ripley, W. Va., where his parents now live for interment.

R. E Dorsey wishes to extend his thanks to the people of Durbin for the kindness shown his brother, and especially to Charles Slaven and family for the interest taken in his brothers comfort and welfare during his stay with them.

Sparing of Her Remedy.

There is at least one woman in Kenwood who believes thoroughly in the efficacy of prayer. About a year ago her husband engaged in a business venture that looked rather uncertain. But his wife had strong faith that it would turn out well.

"Go ahead, John," she said, "and let us put our trust in the Lord. I pray every night that we may have no reason to regret the risk we are taking."

The affair seemed to turn out pretty well from the start. Handsome dividends were paid all thro' the summer and during the winter and great joy was in the home of this man and the sharer of his fortunes.

But there came a turn about a month ago. The business ceased to pay, and since then the losses have been increasing every day. Nothing was said about it on the fireside around which so much so much happiness had centered during the last year during the last year until the other day, when it was suggested by the worried husband that it would be well to cut down expenses. Questions followed as a matter of course, and then it had to be confessed that the business was not going well.

"Dear me!" exclaimed the distressed woman, when all the truth had been realed to her. "I must begin praying again tonight!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

McClintic's Camp.

Hello Mr Editor, I will give you a few lines, including Webster County as well as our Camp.

The ramps are ripe and mostly gathered; haymaking is in order; the corn is beginning to silk and oats are about ready to cut. The blackberries are beginning to get ripe, and in some parts it is dangerous to be safe.

Saturday, the 4th, at Camden on Gauley at Dick Dyer's saloon a man by the name of Young living in about ten miles of Camden was there and drinking to some extent; walked up to the clerk, George Milan, and using some oaths said to him, "I never have liked a bone in your body," and fired with a 38 revolver and shot him in the throat. Death followed Tuesday. Young is in the Addison jail.

Henry Fletcher, while in a poker game at Cherry Bottom got in a dispute and drew a knife on the insulted man, and in return he gave Mr Fletcher a 32 pistol bullet in his mouth and one in his side, but Mr Fletcher is about well again.

A couple started from the three forks of Williams River to Cowen to get married. They were walking very rapid and overtook a Frenchman who had a good supply of pigs ear whiskey, and the Frenchman being a very kind-hearted man, divided his whiskey with them. The groom-to-be got very much intoxicated and the Frenchman took the bride, she having the license. They went on to Cowen and tried to get married, but the Frenchman was too well known. So the lady gave the license back to the intoxicated lover and went with the Frenchman, and they are waiting for Groundhog day to come so they can get married. Such is life.

Court has been in session at Addison for some days. The case of W. McClintic and the incorporation at Cowen being called the papers had been lost and the case was thrown out of court.

Pat Henry of Locust has completed his job and is moving his camp outfit home.

George Scales of Mill Point has gone to visit relatives there.

Mr Sam Rankin, the Dear Boss, is at home for a few days at Camden.

Bertin McComb of Mill Point went home a few days ago to see his betsy.

Blackberries are plenty here. It keeps John A. busy to pick enough to make pies.

Pat Kearney got lost a few nights ago on his return from Cowen and never got in until about daylight.

Enoch and Add Taylor have returned from a visit to Huttonsville.

W. G. Gray has completed his job and is looking at another on Cranberry.

Hurrah for McClintic for Legislature.

Reuben.

Big Rattlesnake.

Monday afternoon, August 6, while Ernest Dilley, aged about 10 years, son of Amos Dilley on Thorney Creek, was looking after choke cherries he came upon a rattlesnake coiled in a fence corner. Almost breathless from fright he called to his father, a few rods away driving a mowing machine, to come and kill it. While looking for the snake at the place pointed out Mr Dilley discovered in another place an immense rattlesnake, just ready to strike at him. He attacked it and a lively scuffle ensued, the powerful reptile came near getting away. Having dispatched it he renewed his search at the spot pointed out by the lad but no snake could be found. It had probably become frightened and glided into a ground hog den, near by. The indications are that this was the temporary abode of the two snakes. The one killed when examined by the writer was fully five feet long. It had hung out all night however and its normal length might have been something over four feet and a half, and was as thick as a large man's arm. It was a monster of its kind, with fourteen rattles.

An Explanation.

Ben Ben was to the fist last week for H. & H.—[Exchange.

Who is "Ben Ben," and where is he now?—[Hinton Leader.]

We recognize the first part of the above as taken from the Frost correspondence of the Pocahontas Times. The unaccountable curiosity of the Leader, the Old Woman of Hinton, is responsible for this elimination of space about it, which could be used to better advantage. The fist and a half above conveyed as much information to the persons interested in the matter as a stick of compacted could do. How the interpretation [illegible] Mr Benjamin Cameo of Frost went to the Hot Springs last week for Hannah & Harper, merchants. At present he is so much attending to his own business—a trade he learned when he was young.

The Campers Out.

A party of young people from Lewisburg and vicinity are camping out near Marlinton, having excellent sport and getting near to Nature's own heart in their free and simple mode of living.

The party numbering eighteen, all told, arrived in a four horse wagon, presenting to the beholder a bewildering galaxy of youth and beauty. They will spend about ten days on the trip. A commissary wagon, amply provisioned, accompanied the outfit. They are well subplied with tents.

Those comprising the party are as follows:

Mrs Henry Hunter.

Misses Elizabeth Newman, Julia Arbuckle, Emma Arbuckle, Mary Lynn Arbuckle, Anna McLaughlin, Lula McLaughlin, Ruth Randolph, Emma Brown, Ann Brown, Madge Dobbs.

Messrs Sandy Arbuckle, Houston Arbuckle, Stewart Arbuckle, Lee McLaughlin, Edgar McLaughlin, Robert Braxton, Charles Rader.

Fish Hatchery.

Fish Commissioner George W. Bowers will soon go on a tour of inspection of various points in the State with a view to locating a fish hatchery in West Virginia. Senator Elkins has interested himself in the matter from the first, and it was mainly through his efforts that Congress appropriated at its last session $25,000 for the purpose. It is natural that he should want the plant located ih his home county of Randolph.

The advantages of the Cave Creek spring and other points in this county have been presented to the Commissioner, and photographs and description of the locality sent by the writer. It is hoped that he will visit this county on his tour of inspection. The selection of a site is left entirely in his hands. Trout and black bass, the native fishes of this region are to be the fish propagated.

Moore—Irvine.

At the residence of Renfrien Goelet, near Driscol, Floyd William Moore and Miss Francis Rebecca Irvine, August 8, 1900, were joined in the state of holy matrimony by Wm. T. Price.

The bride is a daughter of Geo. Irvine near Edray. The groom is the eldest son of C. L. Moore, near Huntersville. He was a volunteer in Cuba during the Spanish-American war. When the war ceased he engaged in farming and worked in the lumber camps.

Mr and Mrs Goelet complimented the parties with a bountiful and well appointed supper that was much enjoyed by about fifty guests. Ed Rutledge and Miss Blanche Ruckman sided as light bearers.

Williams—McKeever.

Married at 10½ a. m. at Hotel Bird, August 13, 1900, Henry Pascol Williams and Miss Martha Hoover McKeever, Rev W. T. Price officiating clergyman.

The groom is an industrious young farmer. The bride is a daughter of Allan McKeever of East Greenbrier and is a popular teacher of public schools.

Many kind wishes attend them on the part of numerous friends in Pocahontas and Greenbrier.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and entirely cured," says Rev A. A. Powers, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street had been sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them two or three days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in an awful fix, that that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried."

Singing on Elk.

There will be singing at Mary's Chapel on Elk the fourth Sunday in August beginning at ten o'clock in the morning, also at two in the evening. All day singing. All are invited to come and bring your books with you. If this appointment on Elk should conflict with some other appointment at the same hour, this will be withdrawn. As many music leaders as can go are invited to do so.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

I have a good many accounts out that have been running from the beginning of the year 1899. All parties that have such accounts with me will please come in and settle before the 15th of October, as after that time all that is not settled will be put in the hands of the collectors.

Yours very truly,
R. L. Nottingham.

George P. Wooddell, a native of our county, now a citizen of Seven Oaks, Florida, writes us an interesting personal letter. From the tastefully executed letterhead we learn that he is a dealer in native aquatics, bulbs and green house plants; also fancy poultry. He makes a conditional request for four copies of the proposed Pocahontas History. We give a paragraph from his letter: "I look upon the Times as one of the cleanest and best sheets published any where, and I am truly glad to get it, for I look for it each Monday noon as regularly as I look for my dinner, and am never in too big a rush to first look it over, as it is to me a special courier from my friends in old Pocahontas."

vs.

P. F. Cogan, George Noble and A. F. House, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Cogan, Noble & House, S. J. Payne, N. C. McNeil, Trustee; P. F. Cogan and J. E. M. Hanchel, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Cogan & Hanchel; George Noble and A. F. House, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Noble & House; the Greenbrier Railway Company (a corporation); The Bank of Lewisburg (a corporation) The Pocahontas Bank (a corporation); Jacob Epstein, trading and doing business under the firm name of the Baltimore Bargain House; J. J. Strang, trading and doing business as J. J. Strang & Company, ... Defendants.

The object of this suit is to have a receiver appointed for the insolvent firms of Cogan, Noble & House and Noble & House; to set aside fraudulent assignments of the said Cogan, Noble & House and the said Noble & House to N. C. McNeil, Trustee, for the benefit of S. J. Payne; to obtain order enjoining and restraining the said N. C. McNeil trustee, and the said S. J. Payne from proceeding under the aforesaid frudulent assignments, and to restrain J. J. Strang & Co. from paying over any money to the said insolvent firms of Cogan, Noble & House and Noble & House, and to protect, take care of, and collect the assets of the two firms and apply the same to the satisfaction of the debts owned by the plaintiffs mentioned in the bill and the caption hereto.

This day came the plaintiffs by their attorneys and on their motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that the defendant Jacob Epstein is a non-resident of this State, it is ordered that he appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

One of the popular phrases of the period is one designating a prevalent phrase of religious effort as "Rocking-chair Christianity." It seems to be a popular kind of religious profession from the fact it is very comfortable and restful at home and elsewhere to occupy an easy chair. Some one has gone so far as to say that there are in the churches lots upon lots of Christians who are happily seated in easy chairs and keep up a constant movement, but no advance is made, but this religious movement is just forward and backward over the same lines. Some rock more rapidly than others, but it is no help to others. They are rocking themselves to and fro, but the cause of Christ is not helped for*ward by them. Christian duty* has a "go" in it. Work is a great idea of the christian life, and co-operation, not competition, is the great law of christian effort, and hence it follows that the genuine Christians work together with God.

TESTIMONY.

Rev E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., Kentucky

"A good female school is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford at Lewisburg, W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive—making not only finished scholars, but lovely Christian characters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends."

Dr J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.

"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev R. L. Telford at Lewisburg. Anyway, it has been good enough for me. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

J. J ECHOLS, Esq, of West Virginia.

"I have been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for the last six years, and I believe that under the present management it is the very best Female School in the two Virginias. If I had a dozen daughters I would want them all educated there."

Rev M. L. LACY, D. D., of West Virginia.

"I honestly believe it is the bsst school of which I have any knowledge."

Hon JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, West Virginia.

"I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

LOCATION.—Old Virginia town. Best of society. High and healthy, 2,250 feet above the sea. Climate and mountain scenery unsurpassed.

If only his credit is good.
He may dress like a dude in the finest of clothes,
And wear patent leathers and striped silk hose,
And exhale odorous perfumes where-ever he goes,
If only his credit is good.

The butcher and baker will wait for their pay
From the fellow whose credit is good
And the grocer will furnish provisions all day
To the duffer whose credit is good.
The landlord is never in need of his rent,
And the tailor will trust him to any extent,
And for him new fashions and patterns
invent,
If only his credit is good.

But I somewhere have learned that there's only one way
Of keeping his credit good
And that is by strolling in some day
And paying those to whom his credit is good.
I notice hard cash and nothing else goes
With those who provide shelter, victuals, and clothes,
And bottles whose contents I need not disclose
To you fellows whose credit is good.

THE REAL BRYAN.

Now, the truth of the matter is that Mr Bryan is not a demagogue. He is absolutely honest, which a demagogue is not. He is passionately sincere, which a demagogue is not. He is absolutely brave, which a demagogue is not. When Bryan came to Nebraska a dozen years ago, his town, his Congressional district, and his State were overwhelmingly Republican. A demagogue would have joined the majority party. Bryan took up the cause of tariff reform, and fought a losing fight. When he became convinced that free silver was right, he preached it in his Congressional district with his party organization and the odds of battle against him. He ran for the United States Senate in 1894 with his party's State convention endorsement. If he had trimmed a little on free silver, the Cleveland Gold Democrats might have turned the scales in his favor. But he didn't trim; he lost. When Bryan left the volunteer army of the United States in 1898, his party had been opposing the ratification of the peace treaty with Spain. Bryan opposed his party and favored the ratification of the treaty. A dishonest man would have gloried in fighting the treaty. To-day silver sentiment is dying in the West. Bryan would not lose an electoral vote by abandoning silver. He would gain thousands of franchises in the East by such a course. But because he believes that the free coinage of silver is right, wild horses can not drag him from his stand.

Above everything else, Bryan is personally what may be called a clean man. He is a member of the Presbyterian church, the he does not add to his other faults the "vice of piety." His home life is that of the average well-bred American—simple, affectionate, stimulating. He takes his wife into partnership in all his labors. She is his only confidant and his final adviser. In the town of Lincoln, which does not agree with him politically and will not vote for him, Bryan bears the reputation of a straightforward, honorable man, whose word is good and whose debts are paid when they fall due. In the [illegible] of local politics Bryan is not a dominant force. He has never dominated them. He talked himself into his [illegible] in local politics instead of working up in the [illegible]. But [illegible] to Western politics begin at the bottom—run for county attorney or the legislature, are graduated into a judicial nomination, and ascend to Congress at the close of their political lives. Bryan, having framed his life after the models of the old school, began at the top.

Bryan shows his greatest personal strength in the fact that he is today, as he has ever been, without a political machine. Other men in American politics stand or fall for reasons outside of their personality. Mr David Hill, for instance, is a geographical location. Mr McKinley is a kind of syndicate. Roosevelt stands for an ideal of civic righteousness. Mr Croker is an impudent appetite. Quay is a system of wireless telegraphy. But Bryan is Bryan, and Bryan is his prophet. More power for good or evil rests under Bryan's black slouch hat than under any other single head-piece in America.—[McClures.

THOUGHTS OF A PARSON.

From the Southern Churchman.

An artery was supposed to conduct air; hence its name. But we now know it is blood that it conducts.

I do not know anything which more wonderfully vindicates nature and its Creator for order and design. I saw a physician the other day dissipate by gentle pressure a deposit of chyle on a man's hand, and it set me thinking how marvelous is the human frame and how great a God is our God.

When I learned the structure of the artery, the argument from design was not the less, but all the more cogent. The structure is very complicated, yet how each factor contemplates a wise and beneficient purpose. The three layers—outer, inner, and middle—insure strength. All this lined with a soft, delicate material, and smooth to allow the unimpeded flow of the blood. Then the whole placed in a strong tissue to sheath and protect it. How careful the hand of nature—the Great Mind of the universe must have guided it.

Cut an artery, and one would think death would follow from bleeding. But nature has provided against this. The walls of a vein collapse, but those of the artery act otherwise. The orifice contracts, a clot of blood forms inside and another outside, and fatal hemorrhage is prevented. Then the edges of the wound begin the usual deposit of lymph, and all is well. Compress the ends of a severed artery by ligature, two of the layers curl inwardly and the tissues soon heal. The whole action of an artery seems to be that of an intelligent being, instead of that of senseless flesh and blood. A great Being must have arranged for all this—nature only his handmaid.

But these arteries branch; the branches supply blood, as smaller streams do water to land, only in the reverse order, the river receives tributaries; the artery throws them off. Another thing of the artery now is that, after supplying a sufficient acreage, it again becomes branchless, goes a distance in that condition, and when it reaches territory that needs irrigation again breaks out into rivulets, and once more supplies the dry region roundabout. Is there not the eye and the finger of a Great Mind in all this, my friend of the doubting school? Chance is too poor a name for so much order and design; let us call it by a better.

I have learned a great deal about these wonderful things, but shall not just yet set up to practice surgery! I have heard other lectures too, on anatomy; they all leave me in a state of grateful amazement. Astronomy does the same. I think the microscope alone ought to convert all atheists. How order and design flash out at every point of contact between our minds and the world of nature about us. Can any man be what some profess to be?

You undergraduates will notice that I have spared you any hard words, but I want now to use one. It will look very wise in me, and one likes to be thought that. Well the hard word is "Anastomose." This means to inosculate, to join mouths, to kiss—now you understand.

The artery breaks up into small ones, and these farther on unite again, and so one vast system, all working in harmony, is formed. The rivulets flow into each other, and all back again, finally, into the parent trunk. Wonderful, is it not? Could accident have brought all this about? Is God a Father of confusion, or of wisdom and adaptation?

At every large joint there is "what we call" general anastomosing, in order that the elbow or knee, for instance, may be sure to get all the blood it requires. If the parent artery be obstructed, the little ones of the family take upon themselves to grow up fast and support the others, much as lads and lassies sometimes do if the head of the family gets disabled by age or infirmity. Is there no hand of God in this wise provision? See one of these small vessels, only a subordinate branch, remember, enlarging, growing twice as fast as it would have done but for the injury to the main branch, and in this way beautifully and sufficiently compensating for the harm and loss sustained by the body, whose servant it is. All this may have "just happened," but I think not, and you and I, I hope, agree. Let us leave doubt to the doubters. The vein and the artery and the blood, all this shall teach us better things.

And not only all this, but after a time only a few of the little baby arteries which came to the rescue and grew up fast, and helped the cause so well, remain in their enlarged condition; the rest of them subside, and only those which most resemble the original and main one, stay of the size they have gained—all this to avoid overdoing and being in the way of each other. The artery seems, on the whole, to have a great deal of good judgment, and if it and I together have taught my young readers a lesson I am glad to have taken one for my text. R. W. L.

A Minister's Good Work.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and entirely cured," says Rev A. A. Powers, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street had been sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them two or three days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in an awful fix, that that it was almost bloody flux. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried."

"Boy," said the wealthy, man, beaming with gratitude, "you have done me a great service, and I am going to reward you." "Oh, thank you, sir!" gasped the small boy. "Here in this small case," continued the millionaire, "is the first dollar I ever made. You may look at it. And here is a recent copy of The Claptrap Magazine, which contains my article telling how I made it. Read it, and may heaven bless you!"—Catholic Standard and Times.

If you have a baby in the house you will wish to know the best way to check any unusual looseness of the bowels so common in small children. O. P. M. Holliday, of Deming, Ind., who has an eleven month's old baby, says: "Through the months of July and August our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach. His bowels would move five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once."

THE CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

Among the many interesting things to be seen in Washington perhaps nothing is more interesting than the Congressional Library, especially if the visitor be a lover of art rather than of history. The name "Congressional" might imply that the Library was for the exclusive benefit of Congress, but such is not the case. It is true that Government officials have some privileges not accorded to the general unpolished freckled public, but the library is free. Any one can read its books or admire its beauties.

Certainly there are a few regulations as to how a visitor is to conduct himself. You are not expected to break the nose and ears off the statue of St Paul and carry them away as a relic. It is not considered as being good form to spit against the finest paintings unless you are using the best brands of tobacco,—but to my story.

The first effort made by the government to establish a library was in 1800, when the Congress at Philadelphia appropriated $5000 for the purchase of books. When they were secured the west front of the old Capitol building was made to serve as a store room. In 1814 Admiral Cockburn of England and some companions came up the Potomac on a picnic and stopped over at Washington. As usual on such outings the crowd became hilarious, and in spite of the one-armed policeman who guarded the Capitol they scattered the books about the floors, and at Cockburn's order "Light up!" the match was applied, and when the blaze died out America had no library, and only one corner of a Capitol.

After the "War of '12," the Government bought Jefferson's library at Monticello, and with this as a nucleous begun a new collection. This was kept in the West front of the new Capitol, but as the library grew it became necessary to store them in the basement. In 1886 the attics and woodsheds were filled; then Uncle Sammy built his books a new house.

The building was properly begun in 1888 and was fidished in 1897. It stands directly east from the Capitol about one-fourth mile, and on account of the Capitol's immense size and height the Library is made to appear smaller than it really is. It cost $6,360,000, covers nearly four acres of ground, and has a floor space of eight acres

In form it is a rectangle. The design is taken from the Italian Renaissance,—that is derived from the architecture of the fourteenth century, when the neglected models of Greece and Rome were revived and combined. The building is fireproof, being built entirely of granite, marble, brick, and steel, and is the largest library building in the world. For beauty of design and elegance of finish it probably has no equal in existance. It impresses not with its size, but with its beauty

The structure is surmounted by a great golden dome, not golden figuratively but literally, as the dome is covered with gold leaf of 23 caret fineness. This might seem extravagant, as the dome has a surface of at least one thousand square feet; but it is said that $3800 worth of gold was beaten so as to cover this area. As you approach from the west the sun-glittering dome and the massive but delicate outlines of the architectural triumph impress one as being grand, but the impression made by the outward appearance fails to prepare the visitor for the scene within.

As you ascend the flights of marble steps towards the entrance pavilion, Hinton Perry's Fountain as it is called will arrest you. This fountain is in a semi-circle with a radius and diameter of 50 and [illegible] feet, and represents the court of Neptune the sea god, with a background of granite [illegible] ing so as to form a representation of a sea-beaten cliff. The colossal figure of the [illegible] sea god sits surrounded by his court. On either side is a Triton blowing a conch to summon the sea monster to their sovereign. In front are two enraged sea horses ridden by nude nymths, while a dozen sea inhabitants, turtles, serpents, &c., pour streams of water from their mouths upon the granite figures. The entire group is in bronze executed by Hinton Perry at a cost of $40,000 dollars.

The principal ornamentation on the outside apart from the general magnificence of design is a series of thirty-three sculptured heads, set as keystones over the arching front windows, representing the thirty-three principal races of mankind. Also a set of nine heads, placed over the entrance doors, representing Democsthenes, Goethe, Franklin, Emerson, Irving, McCauley, Hawthorne, Scott, and Dante. The heads are by Boyd and Elliot, the busts by Adams, Hartley, and Ruckstuhe.

The entrance doors, cast bronze by McMonnies and Warner, are three in number, each with a height and wid h of fourteen and seven and one-half feet, and a weight of nearly four tons. The design of the doors represent human progress: first, Tradition; second, Writing; last of all, Printing.

This article is now too long and the interior of the building can not be described until next week.

A tract of 20 acres of waste and unappropriated land adjoining T. A Bruffey and others.

A tract of about 200 acres adjoining J. T. Hogsett and others, waste and unappropriated.

A tract of of 50 acres waste and unappropriated lands adjoining lands of Charles Morrison.

A tract of 26 acres adjoining Rober Webster and others.

First—For what year or years said tracts or any of them have been forfeited for non-payment of taxes due thereon, and whether any of said tracts have become forfeited to the State of West Virginia for the non-payment of taxes due thereon, and subject to be sold for the benefit of the School Fund.

Second—The amount of taxes, interest, damages and costs due thereon, or on any of said tracts, and unpaid.

Third—Whether the location of said tracts are ascertainable, and if so, their actual location.

Fourth—In whom the title to said lands is now vested, by forfeiture or otherwise, and who, if any one, is entitled to redeem.

Fifth—Such other matters and things as said Commissioner may deem pertinent, and any of the parties in interest may require.

And it is further ordered that said commissioner, before proceeding to execute this decree, shall give notice to the parties interested, and all unknown owners and claimants of said lands of the time and place when and where he will proceed to execute this decree, by advertising in the "Pocahontas Times," a newspaper published in Pocahontas County, for four successive weeks before commencing said account. RIDING A BUCKING MULE.

A "Puncher's" Adventure From the Indian Territory.

The Century Magazine's prize for the best short story submitted by a college student has been awarded to John M. Oskison of Leland Stanford University, whose home is in the Indian Territory, and whose blood is partly Indian. "Only the Master Shall Praise" is its title; and one of its scenes is a description of a ride on a bucking mule.

Out of a knot of excited men Hanner went straight to the waiting, restless mule. With a mock air of bravado, he struck the excited mule across the flank with his sombrero, after roughly seizing the reins. No one who has not learned by experience how to mount a plunging horse can understand how Hanner lifted himself out of the chaos of rearing mule and struggling attendants into the saddle before he signed to the men to turn the animal loose.

When the mule found itself free to act there was a momentary pause. Then began the short, nasty jumps straight into the air, with the anima's back bowed, its legs stiff, and its head lowered. It was the first powerful effort of the angered beast, made with devilish confidence. Hanner was scarcely shaken by these first straight jumps, but then began the twisting series which is the second expedient of a bucking animal. A jump high into the air, with a seemingly impossible twist to the side, landed the mule with its head turned almost half round. Before the rider caught his breath another jump and another half-tu n were made. These are the motions that make a bronco-buster's life shorter. Hanner was bleeding at the nose in half a minute. The twisting jumps were continued until the strength of the mule was almost exhausted and as yet only the hat of the puncher had been dislodged. A short pause followed placed upon the paper-covered plate during which the mule changed its tactics and Hanner thwacked its sweaty neck with his open hand. The next motion was a sudden rearing by the mule. As it rose on its hind legs, the rider yanked fiercely on the reins, and, slipping to the ground on one side allowed the brute to fall on its back. The saddle horn buried itself in the earth, and the mule's hoofs beat the air a moment before it scrambled to its feet.

Hanner was cooler than the mule now, and swung himself back into the saddle with the first long leap of the desperate animal. This was the easy part of the trial for the rider, and the spectacular part for the world. The mule ran straight away for the opposite fence of the fair-grounds with long, lunging jumps, rising and pitching forward with the speed of a racing yacht. Hanner brought his craft about before it sailed into the fence, and beat it fore and aft with a flourishing hand. He was wild with triumph now, his hair blowing in the wind. He leaned forward as in a race, urging the thoroughly tired and conquered mule straight for the crowd. A particularly vicious dig with the spurs made the beast plunge into the scattering knot of spectators and rise to a four-barred gate. At the opposite side of the track no fence barred its way, and it ran, frightened and quivering under the awning of a lemonade-vender's stand, scattering glasses and confections to the winds, and wrecking the stand. Hanner slowly dismounted, stroked the sweaty flank of the subdued mule, then turning and picking up an unbroken bottle of soda, proposed a toast "to our gentle old family-buggy hoss!"

SCIENCE EXPLAINS.

Bible Miracles Are Not Essential to Christianity.

Miracles as an article of faith were taken out of Christianity by Prof. Benjamin W. Bacon, of the Yale Divinity School, the other evening. He spoke before the Men's Club of the United Church on the theme "Is a Belief in Miracles Essential to Christianity?"

At the outset Prof. Bacon declared that it was not, and he said that the greater part of the miracles of the Bible can now be explained by scientific reasoning. They were regarded originally as miracles because they were not understood. He pointed to the alleged miraculous destruction of armies and multitudes of people according to the Old Testament, asserting that some plague which was not understood fell upon the armies, and that because of the enormous number of deaths which followed a miracle was said to have been wrought.

Prof. Bacon explained the crossing of the Red Sea by the children of Israel by saying that it had been found that high winds actually drive the sea back at the exact spot where the miracle is supposed to have taken place, and that probably the children of Israel arrived at just the time when one of these was blowing.

He declared that the test of the miraculous was "permanent incomprehensibility." The only two miracles which have stood the test of science in attempts to explain are, he said, the Resurrection and the Crucifixion. He referred to many of the miracles of the New Testament as "legendary accretions," declaring that the narratives were written down from memory years after their occurrence, by the Apostles.

Prof. Bacon's address is said to have been based on the doctrine taught in the Yale Divinity School.—N. Y. World.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made in a cause therein pending on the 21st day of June, 1900, in the chancery cause of John A. Gum vs G. W. Waid and others, the undersigned special commissioners will on the first day of the circuit court of said county, at the front door of the court house of said county, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the life interest of the said G. W. Waid in a tract of sixty acres more or less, situated on the North Fork of Anthony's Creek in said county, it being the same land of which Mary Wade died seized and possessed. The land is that upon which the said G. W. Waid now resides, and comprises a valuable farm having on it good improvable land and suitable buildings.

Terms of Sale—So much cash in hand as will pay costs of suit and expenses of sale, and the residue up on a credit of six months, the purchaser executing his bond with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

H. S. RUCKER,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioners

I, J. H. Patterson, clerk of the circuit court of Pocahontas County, do certify that Andrew Price, one of the special commissioners named above, has given bond as required by said decree.

Rev G. W. Nickell of Gap Mills W. Va., pastor elect of Huntersville and Marlinton Presbyterian Churches, spent a few days visiting these congregations and preached at Edray Saturday night, Marlinton Sunday morning, and Huntersville at night. The question of his acceptance will be settled at Presbytery, Hillsdale, September 5th. The impression is very manifest that he is the right man for the place.

It is with feelings of sincere regret that it becomes our duty to record the death of one of our prominent young citizens, D. Taylor McNeill, Commissioner of the Federal Court, merchant, and postmaster at Buckeye. This sad event occurred Wednesday morning, 15 instant, aged about thirty years. He was the Republican nominee for the legislature in 1858, served as a clerk on a Senatorial committee last session; and was an enthusiastic member of the Masonic fraternity and from early youth a professing christian in the pale of the M. P. Church.

On August 15 the allied forces led by Gen Yan Maguchi, a noted Japanese officer, entered Pekin and found the ministers all safe, with two weeks provisions on hand. The rescue of the ministers relieves the United States from further responsibility for armed interference. The Queen Dowager and Prince Tuan had fled the city. There is no indication of the Powers withdrawing troops and there is no certain indication of peace as matters now stand.

The Pocahontas Development Co.

J. L. Hechmer, general manager and secretary of the Pocahontas Development Company, was in Marlinton last week and transacted quite a lot of business in regard to the town property.

The Pocahontas Bank purchased the building in which it is doing business and the adjoining lot at $2000. This permanently locates both of our county banks on the same block, which together with the proximity of the depot and numerous stores already established makes that the business part of the town.

W. A. Bratton purchased the house in which he lives and two adjoining lots, and contemplates extensive improvements.

The lots near the court house are considered the most desirable for residences, and it is destined that this section of the town will contain most of the better class of dwellings. Hubert Echols bought a lot in this section and has let a house to contract to W. J. Killingsworth, to be finished by December 1. C. A. Yeager is also building in this section.

Smith & Whiting bought a number of lots above the bank block and will erect lumber and coal yards at once, They improved about a half-mile of Camden Avenue leading to their property.

O. A. Veasy, the engineer who laid out the town in 1891, was here and laid out a number of very desirable lots on the brow of the hill back of the court house. Also some lots across the creek from B. M. Yeager's which are to be sold cheap. About forty corner stones have been quarried to mark different corners throughout the town.

ONOTO.

Good morning Mr Editor! It is nice and cool just now and if you will listen to me a few moments I will tell you some of the news of our section of country. No doubt you know where Onoto is located but some of your many readers may not. This thriving place is situated on a little rise between Stony Creek and the Big Spring one mile and a half from Edray. Onoto is booming since we have gotten a mail route, three saw mills almost in sight and more coming, one planer and two grist mills, but as we are not directly on the R. R. line we don't expect any machine shops to be built here for some time.

C. F. Gay expects to complete his lumber job in the near future. John Duffield is pushing for him.

S. P. Sheets expects to move his sawmill soon. He is a good sawyer and a nice man. He does honest work.

Walter Curry has a crew of men at work on his cutting contract from Jackson & Doyle, and he is hustling things lively.

Jackson & Doyle are going to build fence for a business as soon as Doyle gets able to work. He had the misfortune to get his knee badly sprained some time ago.

There is a movement on foot to fence the cemetery at N. S. Duffield's. Those who have friends and relatives buried there will please meet there on Saturday, August 25 at 2 p. m., in order to dress up the graves and to appoint a committee to take charge of fencing. If the interest manifested is not sufficient, the whole cemetery will not be fenced. Surely you have not forgotten the loved ones whose dust lies here. Come and help us locate and dress up their graves.

General Coxey still sits on the lumber pile and grins. He is a jolly old fellow.

Well, Mr Editor, the day is getting too hot for me. I must go to the shade. Good by.

Forest Malcomb of Savannah, Greenbrier county, is in this part.

Asa Barlow and Adam Baxter have gone to Addison to use the water.

Miss Mamie Silva has returned to her home near Mill Point accompanied by her sister Mrs Anderson Barlow and little son Glenn James White and wife of Laurel Creek are visiting Mr Peck, Lobelia.

Miss Ada White of Mill Point called to see her sister Mamie one day last week.

Miss Bessie Patterson, who has been in Highland for some time, has returned to her home. Her many friends are glad to have her among them once more.

We presume that Mike has a head on him like a cow pumpkin.

We agree with Susan that the mayor of that big town of Frost may bloom soon, but we fear he will be like the rose—some hand will pluck him for a boquet.

Miss Emma McNeil is the guest of F. N. Moore at this writing.

Dr Jordon was in to see Wash Hoover one day last week.

Hay making is a thing of the past.

Ira Buzzard is doing a rushing business; may his pathway be strewn with flowers.

E. N. Moore made a flying trip to the lower end of the county last week.

A good many of our people have been out to Cheat for black berries.

Dilley & Eagle were hulling grain in this part last week.

William is out to Huttonsville for H. Moore this week.

EAST FROST.

Dr J. B. Lockridge is our leading physician in this vicinity.

Wheat has declined in price since the new crop has begun to come on the market.

Pat Gay, of Elk, was in town last week, trading horses.

Don't forget to come to A. L. Dilley's big auction, Saturday August 25, 1900.

They say that the mayor of the town will bloom some of these times among the people. We don't think—he was nipped in the bud.

Some people do not understand why A. L. Dilley sells so cheap. He buys for cash, sells for cash and is not going on borrowed capital.

Mike is all right but he won't do. They say he has a head—but there are others.

Price Moore went to the Hot Springs for Dilley and Harper.

Eagle & Dilley were opperating their threshing machine in this part last week.

We don't think the lower end of town need to be scared if the east end boom should burst, as brainless things never sink.

East Street has got the post office with O. B. Sharp post master. The post office will be kept at his home in East Street. Hurrah for our side!

The Frost correspondent last week said that the bargain store will soon lead under ground. If such be the case it is not by borrowed capital, with a big display, that in the end will lead some poor man to the same place.

Be careful Susan, the Lion is king of beasts.

Judging from appearances, the lower end of town has been dead for some time. LION.

BIG SUIT.

Ex-Congressman C. P. Dorr, of Webster county filed a suit in Parkersburg on the 13th for $25,000 damage against ex-United States Senator Johnson N. Camden. Dorr claims that the Senator owes him $13,000 for services performed during the litigation over the Dewing tract of land, which was in controversy for years and asks the rest for damage. Senator Camden denies owing Dorr anything.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE.

Trustee's Sale.

By virtue of a deed of trust made on the 9th day of January, 1900, between P. F. Cogan and J. E. M. Hanchel, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Cogan & Hanchel, to the undersigned trustees to secure the payment of a certain negotiable note in the sum of $415.00 due the Pocahontas Bank, a corporation, and the said note having been paid by S. J. Payne and the said Pocahontas Bank having assigned to him its rights under the said deed of trust, on the 8th day of February, 1900, and having been directed so to do by the said S J. Payne, the undersigned trustees will on Saturday,

September 1, 1900,

at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., proceed to sell by way of public auction to the highest bidder the following personal property, to-wit:

Eighty barrels of cement, four derricks and fixtures, and all tools and working materials belonging to the said Cogan & Hanchel conveyed by said deed of trust, the whole comprising a bridge building, and quarry outfit in use and situated along the line of the Greenbrier Railway in said county. Said deed of trust is of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, in Trust Deed Book No. 1, at page 162.

P. F. Cogan, George Noble and A. F. House, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Cogan, Noble & House, S. J. Payne, N. C. McNeil, Trustee; P. F. Cogan and J. E. M. Hanchel, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Cogan & Hanchel; George Noble and A. F. House, partners trading and doing business under the firm name and style of Noble & House; the Greenbrier Railway Company (a corporation); The Bank of Lewisburg (a corporation) The Pocahontas Bank (a corporation); Jacob Epstein, trading and doing business under the firm name of the Baltimore Bargain House; J. J. Strang, trading and doing business as J. J. Strang & Company .... Defendants.

The object of this suit is to have a receiver appointed for the insolvent firms of Cogan, Noble & House and Noble & House; to set aside fraudulent assignments of the said Cogan, Noble & House and the said Noble & House to N. C. McNeil, Trustee, for the benefit of S. J. Payne; to obtain order enjoining and restraining the said N. C. McNeil trustee, and the said S. J. Payne from proceeding under the aforesaid fraudulent assignments, and to restrain J. J. Strang & Co. from paying over any moneys to the said insolvent firms of Cogan, Noble & House and Noble & House, and to protect, take care of, and collect the assets of the two firms and apply the same to the satisfaction of the debts owed to the plaintiffs mentioned in the bill and the caption hereto.

This day came the plaintiffs by their attorneys, and on their motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed, that the defendant Jacob Epstein is a non-resident of this State, it is ordered that he appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

TESTIMONY.

Rev E. O. GUERRANT, D. D., Kentucky

"A good female school is a public blessing, and among many noble institutions I do not know a better one than the one presided over by Rev. R. L. Telford at Lewisburg, W. Va. It is Christian, Biblical, thorough, and attractive—making not only finished scholars, but lovely Christian characters. It is good enough to educate my own daughter, and I take pleasure in commending it to my friends."

Dr J. M. POYNTZ, of Richmond, Ky.

"Rarely indeed does one have the opportunity of placing their daughters in so good an institution of learning as the one presided over by Rev. R. L. Telford at Lewisburg. Anyway, it has been good enough for me. My daughter has been cared for as if she had been a member of the family."

J. J. ECHOLS, Esq., of West Virginia.

"I have been a patron of the Lewisburg Female Institute for the last six years, and I believe that under the present management it is the very best Female School in the two Virginias. If I had a dozen daughters I would want them all educated there."

Rev M. L. LACY, D. D., of West Virginia.

"I honestly believe it is the best school of which I have any knowledge."

Hon JOHN W. McCREERY, of the State Senate, West Virginia.

"I regard the school as one of the best in the country."

LOCATION.—Old Virginia town. Best of society. High and healthy. 2,250 feet above the sea. Climate and mountain scenery unsurpassed.
